In line with the global business strategy to enhance the service offer in the countries where the BNP Paribas Group is present, BNP Paribas Real Estate Romania has recently concluded an exclusive partnership with the Brittain Hadley Group. This alliance allows BNP Paribas Real Estate clients to benefit from the advice of an international expert in project management and building consultancy.

The Brittain Hadley Group has started developing its core business of building consultancy activities in Romania, having already established a reputation on the local market. Recent significant works performed here include a major office fit-out in central Bucharest and an industrial production facility in Timisoara.

Mr. Alan Fulford, Chief Executive Officer of Brittain Hadley, declared: "We have been working on this partnership for several months, considering the increasing demand for building consultancy services here in Romania, where both tenants and landlords are starting to look for experts to support their real estate projects."

Mr. Philippe Mer, Director-International Coordination at BNP Paribas Real Estate, added: "Considering the high expectations of our clients and the increasing needs of the market, Brittain Hadley was the best possible company to partner with."
